Dear Sachna [Chef supreme!]

From time to time there are events which take on a life of their own, and succeed because participants and planners came upon the same elements of delight, tone, and a sense that the occasion was "just right." The Parent-Faculty Party this year was such an event. I was ecstatic that night, and so told you, yet in the last few weeks I have not only heard from a vast number of equally "possessed" parents, but am aware of a spontaneous movement among the faculty to find a way to say, "Thanks, it was a very special Parent-Faculty party!"

Since I know a bit of the hard work that went into the evening, from evaluating previous Parent-Faculty parties to the table flavors and sea of Indian + desert delectables, I want you personally to know of this triumph. I know you enjoyed it too, but that is no substitute for being part of an "appreciated" team that made this occasion plain good fun, low key; genuine; tasty; and "invigoratingly relaxed." You are in the awe and admiration of a "mighty army of party goers", parents and faculty and Headmaster alike! — Thanks for making this special time possible.

With gratitude — Bob
